Chamber of Commerce Needs The Support of All Citizens

We wish that every business and professional man and woman in Randall county would join the Chamber of Commerce. Not only join with their dollars, but join in the spirit of the organization, to devote some time to the county building program.

The Chamber of Commerce has a fine record of accomplishments in the past. But it would be a very, very sorry bunch of directors who were willing to live on past accomplishments, or past glory. There are a lot of things which need to be done, and be done NOW—in this year of 1949.

There will always be individuals and firms who like to "free wheel" through life, not paying their part of the cost of operations, or contributing of their time in city building. Fortunately these are at a minimum in Canyon.

We have often been reminded of an old, old adage: "What kind of a town would this town be; if all the citizens in it were just like me!"

If every citizen will take this adage into consideration, Canyon will be able to make some very vitally needed improvements during the coming year. It takes both man power and money to build a community.

YOU are cordially invited to join in the program of the Chamber during the coming year.

Building Adequate Sewer Plant Is the Most Pressing Need

As we see it, the greatest single question confronting the people of Canyon is the sewer disposal problem.

The City Commission will soon start imposing a sewer charge in order to build up a sinking fund for the purpose of enlarging, or building a new sewer system.

Sewer disposal has reached the point where the citizens of Canyon cannot longer neglect its solution. One of these days, unless we act promptly and wisely, Canyon may be confronted with a serious law suit and forced to build an adequate disposal plant.

Water in the disposal plant has greatly increased during the past few years, while the capacity of the plant remains the same.

If any of the sewage should contaminate water in the Tierra Blanca creek, Canyon would have a bear by the tail that we could not handle. The longer we put off action, the greater becomes the danger of a serious law suit. If creek water is contaminated, the city would have no excuse. It would be our fault, and would be the most costly error ever made in this city.

Fight for the Freedom of Religion Is Fight for All

The case of the convicted Catholic Cardinal is the fight of every freeborn citizen who cherished the right to worship as and how he pleases. It is not a fight of one church, but of all churches.

Moscow choose to challenge the Catholic church because it was the strongest church in that part of Europe.

If Moscow had started persecution of smaller and less powerful denominations, it would have attracted little attention and would have accomplished little for anti-Christ Moscow leaders.

The Catholic Church accepted the challenge of Moscow. Free men throughout the world will rejoice that there was such a strong organization ready to put up a fight against such persecution.

If Moscow succeeds in this fight it will mean a continued suppression of all religion of all nations which the Reds may conquer.

The City Commission of Canyon will pass an ordinance soon to make effective a sewer charge and a garbage collection charge. These charges have been declared vitally essential to the future growth and development of Canyon. The charges have been approved by all civic minded citizens who have considered the future growth and development of Canyon.

A member of the legislature proposed that Texas make a legal holiday of January 31, the date of President Roosevelt's birthday. While most Americans will agree that Roosevelt was a brilliant administrator, they are glad that the legislature was sensible enough to reject the proposition. We have too many holidays in Texas already.

The attitude of local citizens toward visitors has often done more damage to towns than the good work of other citizens can overcome. When visitors are abused in Canyon, or are not cordially served by those who are in business or public places, they go away feeling pretty sour on our community. Treat them right, and Canyon will profit.

If you ever reach the stage in life when you think that new inventions are a curse to humanity, just consider the fact that 49% of our people are making a living on industries that were unknown in 1900. Agriculture is about the only industry which has continued throughout the years, and it has been vastly improved.

It's great to be a citizen of America. This is one of only half a dozen nations on the face of the globe in which you are privileged to write as you please, speak as you please, think as you please. But unless we are alert in preserving this freedom it may be taken away from us.

Congress seems a little more favorable toward the recommendations of former president Herbert Hoover than at first predicted. Congress is trying to save money in order to give more aid to stricken Europe. Starting in Washington is the best idea yet presented.

Regardless of famine in large sections of the world today, there is more genuine hunger for love in the world today than for bread. Spread a little kindness as you pass through life.

Divorces in America have increased 240% in recent years. We are so finicky that we cannot live with ourselves.

Keeping up with the Jones has sure wrecked the lives of many, many good folks. Don't try it, folks, don't try it.

One child out of every 12 in America was born out of wedlock. That's a mighty poor recommendation for a great nation.

Farm-to-Market Roads Are Needed in Randall County

According to a survey taken last week by The News it is evident that Randall county citizens believe that we must get ready to take advantage of the farm-to-market road program. Just what that program will be, no one is in position to say just now.

Several bills are pending in the legislature on the subject. None of them has passed. The News took this survey in order to get the opinion of the people.

Some asked if this meant a bond election; frankly, we do not know. Voters of Randall county rejected such a bond issue last year. However, at that time no law was pending on farm-to-market roads, and the proposal was not entirely clear in the minds of the voters.

If and when the present measure is passed by the legislature it will be pretty clearly defined as to what the state intends to do, and what will be expected from the counties who participate.

We are of the opinion that Randall county needs more farm-to-market roads. Just how we shall get such roads is another question. We shall have to wait for the legislature to act.

Readjustment of Prices Is No Sign of Disruption

We have never had much sympathy for the fellow who had gambled and lost. This is especially true of the fellows who have lost their shirts on the commodity market. But the market thrives on the mistakes of suckers, who cannot resist the temptation of making some easy money. This easy money argument is the thing which has wrecked the finances of many better and smarter men than we are. Let it be remembered that farm commodities are the first to hit the downward trend in any readjustment of prices. Whether right or wrong, it is always the beginning spot. Personally we are not too much concerned about the dangers of any sudden reversals. With commodity prices down, the government will step in to hold up prices. You will recall that the farm belt of the nation elected President Truman. He is obligated to look after his friends. To do otherwise would mean a recurrence of 1929, and the President is too smart to allow anything like that to happen.

Senator Taft Argues Against Repeal of Labor Laws

Senator Taft in particular and the Republican party in general served notice some time ago that the Taft-Hartley labor law was not going to be repealed without a struggle.

Senator Taft is leading the defense of the law before the labor committee. Hearings will drag out for a couple more weeks.

The rabid labor leaders are not pleased with the bill proposed by President Truman. John L. Lewis and his miners say that there should be no law on the regulation of labor. Other labor leaders argue the same way, but are not so frank.

If these leaders had their way about the situation, labor would be turned loose to do as it pleased without restraint. This would be equally as bad as turning industry loose to do as it pleases.

Both sides have been so selfish that restraining laws are necessary.

Propose to Reduce House Size

The most sensible legislative reform that has come before the legislature is to reduce the House of Representatives to 93 members. Senator Grady Hazlewood makes the proposal in the form of a constitutional amendment.

Members would be paid $3,000 to $4,800 per year, and would be subject to impeachment for taking bribes to vote for or against any pending bill.

The Senate will probably pass the amendment. What the House will do is another thing. It will be pretty hard to convince 57 members of the House that they should be legislated out of a job.

Texas Slander in New Book

A new book is out which is said to discuss the strong points of the great Southwest. It was written under the direction of an eastern foundation. Texas is described as a land of desolation, cowboys and oil wells. The University of Texas is featured as a second rate college; while culture is revealed only in two "great" (?) men—Homer P. Rainey and J. Frank Dobie.

The University of Oklahoma and the State of Oklahoma are set on a high pedestal of learning and accomplishments. The book was published by the University of Oklahoma Press.

Wouldn't that jar those of us who have been led to believe that Texas was really some state! Oh well, any d— fool can write a book, when they are paid to write.

Take a pride in Canyon; in her institutions; and above all else, take a pride in your own business and in yourself. The fellow without the feeling of pride will soon wreck his own life and greatly damage the life of the community.

Thomas E. Dewey read the riot act to GOPers, and told them just what the matter with their party. Who has had a better opportunity to know what the matter is? Tom took the advice of the leaders, and see what happened to him.

The fellow who goes about his daily duties with a sour face and refuses to radiate goodwill among his neighbors will soon find himself without friends. He is hurting only himself by his attitude toward the world.

The threat of Communism in America is not a red herring, regardless of the unfortunate attitude taken by President Truman. The President was too bull headed to back down on the statement he made during the heat of the campaign.

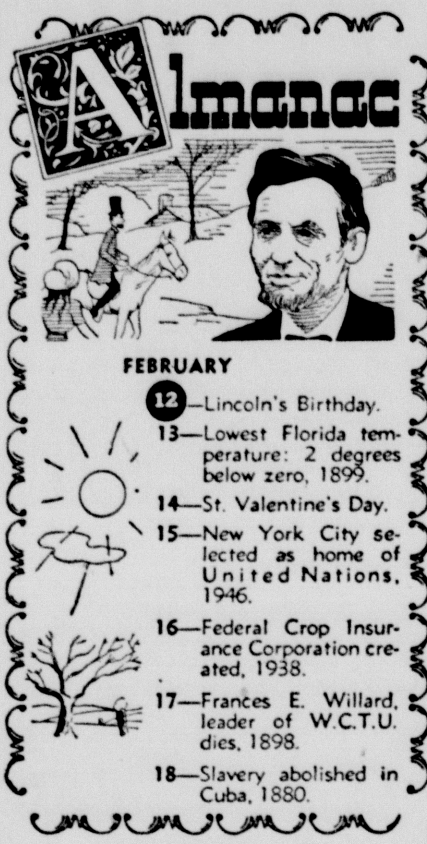

The best years of our lives are ahead of us. Those who live in the past have failed to do much toward making the world better.

Sligar Returns From Odessa Trip

Mrs. Mary Sligar, instructor in the Demonstration School, has just returned from a meeting in Odessa, Texas, which was under the auspices of the Odessa Public Schools.

This meeting was a part of a child study program. The speaker was Dr. Dan Prescott of the University of Maryland who had just returned from a six weeks residence in Prague, Czechoslovakia, where he had conducted a seminar on child growth and development for UNESCO.

He spoke on the topic "Behind The Iron Curtain" and showed how insidiously the communist program works to indoctrinate the people of the nation.

Plans Materialize For Second Plains Personality Pageant

The Second Annual Plains Personality Pageant, WT's most spectacular and glamorous social function of the year, will be held March 4.

Announcement of plans for the Pageant were announced early this week by George Black, president of the Student Association, sponsor of the event.

Held in conjunction with the crowning of the Personality King and Queen of WT, the Pageant holds special interest to the Plains region in that representatives from the area will serve as participants in the coronation ceremonies.

Each major high school and Junior College in the Plains area has been asked to select a Personality Prince and Princess to represent their school at the festivities and form the Royal Court at the Personality Coronation.

Last year 26 schools sent delegates and according to the sponsoring organization more is expected this year since the event is scheduled earlier than it was last year.

Election Soon

West Texas State students should begin thinking about the proper people to run for Personality King and Queen," President Black reminded, "since we expect to announce the rules of the election in the next issue of The Prairie.

Tentative entertainment for the visiting personalities call for a play in the Branding Iron Theatre, Variety Show and a tea in the afternoon. Climax of the extravaganza will come at the formal dance in Burton Gym that night at which time the Pageant will be unveiled.

Tentative plans also call for the program to be aired over an Amarillo station.

Ruling To Force Football Changes

The new football rules will force coaches to keep a punter in the game at all times next fall, and Coach Frank Kimbrough, West Texas State College, plans some shifts in his line-up to meet this requirement.

Although he has not yet set spring training dates, Kimbrough already has completed plans for it. Bill (The Canadian Comet) Cross, 145-pound seat back sensation of the Border Conference, will be shifted to the fullback position so that he can carry the ball more often, run to either side, and, if the occasion demands do some punting.

Deane Wright, reserve end from Spur, will be moved to tackle. This move, plus the material coming up from last fall's fine freshmen team, will give Coach Kimbrough more reserve strength at end, tackle and guard, the lack of which was a glaring weakness last year.

Life Average Of Americans Climbs to 67

NEW YORK.—Life expectancy in America today is at an all-time high of 67 and still advancing, although at a somewhat slower pace than formerly. If a woman gets to be 65, she can expect to live almost 80 on an average; a man somewhat less.

The sexagenarians have become America's new glamor kids. They are getting almost as much attention in the papers as the teen agers. That's a lot of attention.

Teen agers always have been with us but only in recent decades have their elders accepted so generally the proposition that they dress differently, act differently, and have different codes and problems that are well worth studying and humoring.

The sexagenarian also has been with us always, but never in such numbers as now.

You have the actuaries' word for it that he is on the increase. The American population in general is growing older. One estimate is that 10 million of us are 65 years old or older now, and that by 1980 the number will be 21 million out of a 150 million total.

Cold figures like that have made America age conscious.

Worry About Support

People who worry about tomorrow are figuring right now how such a percentage of oldsters can be supported in the style to which they will then be accustomed. They are trying to dope out the effects of such a trend on taxes, industry and politics.

The medical profession, having fought to a standstill some of the diseases of childhood and youth, is swinging the spotlight from pediatrics to geriatrics, the study of the aged. Heart disease and cancer, the bane of later years, are present targets.

At Baltimore, a United States public health service unit is trying to find how to make people live out normal lives as vigorous, useful citizens. An association for successful aging has been formed.

The dictum that life begins at 40 once was novel. In the depression, good will groups labored to prove that men out of a job at that age are material for re-employment.

"Slick To Be 60"

Now nothing less than "it's slick to be 60" would be likely to command attention. Experts say premature retirement brings about speedy incapacity and death, and that older employees are capable and trustworthy.

The theorists are thinking less about pensions and more about opportunities for continuing work and usefulness. Old folks proved themselves in the last war as a real labor reserve.

A radio network program titled "Life Begins at 80" is trying to steal the show from the quiz kids. It's no wonder, as a result of all this, that individual oldsters command the limelight.

Interviewing centenarians on how to be 100 is an old sport. Lately it's got to be a fad.

"Moderation in everything" seems to be the standard reply. But here are lots of others, like—"Maybe because I wear two petticoats." "I've been a faithful smoker." "Be seriously ill for a start." "Be interested in doing all possible for everybody." "Lots of work." "Never worry."

Doctors Seek Causes of Cancer in Science Field

NEW YORK. — The new things science is making for comfort and pleasures may be causing some of the increase in cancer, Dr. John R. Heller, Jr., of the National Cancer Institute reported.

To find out, he told the annual society of the American Cancer society, a new kind of research laboratory is being set up at Georgetown University Medical school. This laboratory will study environment's role in cancer.

Nearly all the known causes of cancer, said Dr. Heller, are external—they are things man comes in contact with in his work or his community. They do not come from his own body.

This, he added, has caused suspicion that search will uncover many more external causes of cancer.

"Industrial progress," he said, "has been marked by many new substances contributing to the comfort and pleasures of life. But these same substances have been adding a whole new spectrum of poisons to man's hazards."

Stormy Weather Increases Petty Thievery in Chile

TEMULCO, CHILE. — Stormy weather was blamed for a series of petty robberies in Temulco, Chile, which police seemed unable to stop. Residents of the town thought the trouble might be due to the small number of policemen on duty, or to the fact that on wet and stormy nights these guardians are wont to find sheltered spots and there pass the time. The police view: "Those who go out with the object of raiding poultry yards generally do so during wet and stormy weather."

Visiting Poet Was Speaker Tuesday at Rotary Club Lunch

Robert Tristram Coffin, famed New England poet, spoke Tuesday at noon at the luncheon of the Canyon Rotary Club. He read a number of his poems much to the delight of the club.

Dr. B. F. Fronabarger, head of the English Department of West Texas State, introduced the poet.

Mr. Coffin designated his group of poems as tangible facts in the American way of life. The first poem was on the old swimming pool, which is fundamental to American life, and unheard of in any other nation on the face of the globe. "The Little Boys of Texas" was the caption of this poem.

He paid respect to the little towns which have done great things in the history of the nation in another poem.

Whales was the subject of a poem, dedicated to his ancestors who came to this country, and spent their lives in whaling.

Plymouth Rock was the subject of another poem, dedicated to the old sea captain who turned his ship around in mid ocean to save the life of a hen.

The telephone was not invented and developed by Alexander Graham Bell, but by the thousands of Americans who demanded the telephone for their every day life.

The program was closed by a poem dedicated to the country doctor. Visitors were: S. W. Ramey of Lubbock; R. W. Eads, H. M. Balner, W. M. Craig, A. R. Watson, F. R. Barnes, W. H. Torrey, Arch Hunsley, all of Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stallings had as dinner guests Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sykes, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Baber, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sykes, Sr., Mrs. Fannie Stallings, Mrs. Edna McCaslin, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Sykes, Jimmy and Patsy, and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Adcock and Nancy.

Charlie Green of Hobbs, New Mexico, visited last Wednesday and Thursday here with his sister, Mrs. Jeannette Robbins, and with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bartlett.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Warwick were in Hereford Thursday night to attend the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet. They were the only representatives from Canyon.

Mrs. Patsy Waters is a new employee of Southwestern Public Service Company.

Faith Dissolves Couples' Fear

ATLANTA.—Mrs. W. L. Cash's first question when her 4-pound, 8 ounce girl was born was, "can she see?"

The doctor replied that the baby was normal in every respect. Mrs. Cash smiled happily and the tension of the past months dropped away.

She and her husband, a piano tuner, have been blind since birth. The mother, who does her own housekeeping, said a physician told her it would be dangerous to have a child.

"But I had faith," she said, "and I just couldn't believe the doctor was right."

Average Income Of Family of Four Hits $5,292 Peak

NEW YORK.—The average American, by latest reckoning, gets $1,323 a year or more than double his 1940 income. That is the figure just released by the National Industrial Conference Board.

The average includes men, women and children, which makes the average U. S. income $5,292 for a family of four.

A year's income payments to individuals in Nevada total $1,842 for every man, woman and child. In New York, it's $1,781 per capita. Thus families of four in those two states are below average if they have $7,000 a year income.

In eight states and the District of Columbia incomes average above $1,600 per capita. That's $6,400 for four people. The states are California, Nevada, Montana, North Dakota, Illinois, New York, Connecticut and Delaware.

These latest figures for a full year are for 1947. It may be higher when the 1948 totals are known. Even so, it is up 130 per cent since 1940.

In 1940 the national average per person was $575. That year the family of four with $2,300 a year was average.

Going back to the latest figures, the low income belt is in the south. This was also true in previous years. But Arkansas, with the lowest average in 1947, had $710 per person which is well above the $575 average of 1940.

Plane Passenger Bound for Puerto Rico Lands in London

NEW YORK.—Wrong Way Corrigan, who headed for California from New York and landed in Ireland, has a counterpart of Mrs. Emilia Garcia de Rivera.

Mrs. de Rivera, mother of 14 children, was worried about flying as fast as possible to Puerto Rico to visit her sick husband.

At La Guardia field, she rushed into a plane, apparently bound for Puerto Rico, and landed the next day—in London.

She explained in Spanish her predicament. She was placed aboard another plane and landed back at La Guardia field.

She did not have to pay the $630 round trip fare.

Said Mrs. de Rivera, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Evelina Toro in New York for six months:

"When does the next plane leave for Puerto Rico?"

Boy Thief Conceals Loot Worth $8,500 in Paper Bag

ANTIOCH, CALIF.—For a week, Vernon Beard, 15, carefully guarded a paper bag, letting no one see its contents. Then police got a look, took the $8,500 it contained and jailed Vernon.

Harry Boyer, chief of police, said the cash was loot from a burglary. He said the boy admitted that he hardly knew what to do with it. He spent a little for candy and milk shakes and was wondering if he should take a trip.

The money was stolen from the home of Jack Wolfe, Antioch merchant. Ever since, said Boyer, Vernon had been carrying it in the paper bag, or hiding it here and there, to return and pick up again.

Police said they matched Vernon's fingerprints from their juvenile files with prints discovered at another break-in and picked him up. Boyer said Vernon would be turned over to the California youth authority.

American Women's Ambition For Sameness Irks Modiste

NEW YORK.—"The trouble with American women is—they all want to look alike."

Mme. Elanora Garnett leaned back in a dove-gray satin chair, flounced her taffy-colored braids, snapped fingers laden with head-light diamonds and continued:

"They go to a department store. They buy a dress. They pay too much. They come out looking just like the woman next door. And so they are happy."

Mme. Garnett, who looks like nobody else, is a designer who has arrived in New York from Shanghai to cut herself a slice of upper crust in the land of opportunity.

Her creations are spectacular enough to impress even the bored citizens of nearby Park avenue, and to cause some stirrings of alarm among other of the town's rarified couturiers.

Health Unit Says Too Many Neurotic Women Teaching

WASHINGTON, D. C.—American delegates to the recent London world congress on mental health came back with this impression: "Not only in the United States but everywhere in the world there are too few men—and too many neurotic women—teaching in the elementary schools."

So reported Dr. Mabel Ross, public health service delegate. She and the two other American delegates—Miss Mary E. Switzer and Dr. Robert H. Felix of the federal security agency—discussed the congress at an assembly of FSA officials.

Miss Switzer called the congress "one of the hopeful signs looking to international peace."

"Closely knit international groups, such as those in medicine, social work and mental hygiene, have proved that nations can cooperate along professional lines even when they cannot do so politically," she said.

Dr. Felix said continental psychiatrists seemed extremely preoccupied with questions of feelings of "national guilt, of historic origin, and its influence—in group behavior and thinking—upon international relations."

He cited a French paper on German youth which he said reasoned that "the only way to handle the German people is to keep a foot on their neck."

"Its argument stemmed from the effect of the German father's authoritarian role upon the son who must bend unquestioningly or rebel."

"It was bitter to hear a scientific man let hatreds influence his reasoning, and I was even more gloomy when I heard Polish, Dutch and Belgian delegates call it masterful and highly scientific."

Australian Ghost Town Moved 157 Miles

SYDNEY.—All that was left of a Western Australian ghost town has been moved, to reappear in new form 157 miles away. This consisted of a deserted hotel which stood alone in the derelict mining township at Mount Palmer.

John Asbury, of a chain store organization, obtained permission from the Western Australian Housing authority to have the hotel demolished and the materials taken to Kalgoorlie, to build a store and five new houses. The hotel was built years ago when a gold find promised to bring boom to Mount Palmer.

Oregon's Pension Plan Perils State's Finances

SALEM, ORE.—Red-faced Oregonians who found out—too late—they had voted themselves into a financial dungeon, looked to the courts and the State legislature to bail them out.

The Oregonians gave thumping approval at the polls to a $50 monthly old-age pension plan—to be paid to men over 65 and women over 60 regardless of the recipient's need.

At once bond companies withdrew bids on two million dollars in State bonds.

"The State is a poor risk. It's darned near insolvent," one investment expert explained.

Startled Oregonians then learned their pension plan might cost as much as nine million dollars monthly—three times what the State spends now on all its activities. Furthermore, no provision had been made to finance the pensions.

The State Public Welfare commission announced it will send out no further old-age assistance checks until the new law is clarified.

Ship's Crew Saves Lost Rooster From Stew Pot

MONTREAL, CANADA.—This is one ship's mascot that has something to crow about.

When Chips, a rooster, went aboard the British freighter Daghestan in Calcutta he was immediately earmarked for the stewing pot. That was more than six years ago and Chips still has the run of the ship and the ports at which she touches.

Although Chips boarded the Daghestan by mistake and learned his error only when he was far out at sea, his curiosity has not been curbed. His enthusiasm to see the port of Montreal when the ship docked here almost cost him his life. He got too near the ship's side and fell into the harbor. It took the crew three hours to fish him out. Now he leaves the vessel via gang-plank and struts on the dock.

Want to Get Rid of Your Baldness? Buy a House!

LONDON, ENGLAND.—The case of a man whose baldness was cured by acquiring a house was reported in the Practitioner, a British medical journal.

Dr. F. F. Hellier, dermatologist, wrote that "the essential cause of alopecia areata (patchy baldness) is psychological."

"A patient of mine revealed that he was 'fed up' at living in his mother-in-law's house. No doubt there were deeper conflicts lurking in his subconscious, but the acquisition of a new house cured his depression and his alopecia."

It also would be an excellent idea to prepare for peace in time of war.

Canyon Friends Attend Last Rites For Glen Davis

Memorial rites for Second Lieutenant Glen M. Davis, young Air Corps pilot who was killed in action February 23, 1944, were held Sunday afternoon, February 13, at 2 o'clock at the First Methodist Church in Shamrock. His body arrived in Shamrock Saturday, Feb. 12 for interment in the Shamrock cemetery. Lt. Davis was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Davis of southwest of Shamrock. He was 24 years old at the time of his death. He graduated from West Texas State High School in 1937 and from West Texas State College in 1941.

Deskins Wells, editor of the Wellington Leader of Wellington, gave the invocation at the service, and the obituary was read by Rev. Vernon Willard. Dr. B. F. Fronabarger read a message to the family which was sent by Dr. J. A. Hill, president emeritus of West Texas State College, who was unable to be present. Dr. S. H. Condon, of the college faculty, gave a short talk in which he pointed out that as a student in W. T. Glen was president of his class all four years, an honor which no other student has ever received. He was the first president of the student association, and was elected for a second term but declined the nomination. After graduation from W. T. he received a fellowship to the law school of Northwestern University, but chose to go to Los Angeles College in Los Angeles, Calif. Instead, he was a leader in Methodist Youth Activities while in school here and was on the Junior Board of Stewards at the Methodist Church.

Rev. John H. Crow of Abilene, Methodist—Conference Missionary, delivered the memorial address.

Lt. Davis went into the Army Air Corps in March, 1942, and received his wings at Lubbock. In November, 1943, the squadron to which he was attached flew their B-24's to Italy and arrived there on December 25. They formed part of the 15th Air Force. Lt. Davis had flown 20 missions over enemy territory, when the squadron was sent on an extremely dangerous mission Feb. 23, 1944, over Steyr, Austria with no fighter escort. They were attacked by enemy fighters enroute to the target, and closed formation for concentrated fire power. Upon reaching the target, they were met with terrific enemy opposition and Lt. Davis' plane was last seen going down with two engines on fire.

His body was buried at Lambach, Austria on February 25, 1944, then moved to St. Avold, France on June 17, 1945, and from there it was brought back to the United States.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Davis, a sister, Mrs. J. H. Bounds of Brownfield, and a number of uncles and aunts and many friends.

Those attending the memorial service from Canyon were Dr. S. H. Condon, Jack Walker, Mrs. Dallas Milner, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Langston, Dr. B. F. Fronabarger, Malcolm Day and Marion Miller from Amarillo.

Dr. Cornette Rotary Speaker At Plainview

"Two Laws of Life" were contrasted by Dr. James P. Cornette, president of West Texas State College, in the meeting of the Plainview Rotary Club on Tuesday.

First, the law of poetic justice teaches that in the course of man's life, good is rewarded and evil is punished.

The second law, that of survival of the fittest, is that might makes right. "Rome and not Germany, both lived and fell by this doctrine," Dr. Cornette declared. Then Jesus reinforced the first law when he said that "right makes might."

"Even the men twisted and perverted his teachings as the devil controls hearts of the church at times, this doctrine gained increasing control over the hearts of his true followers," Dr. Cornette stated. He was introduced by Dr. J. W. Marshall, president of Wayland College, where Dr. Cornette spoke at the chapel service on Tuesday morning.

Bill Price, one of the seven hustlin' freshman basketballers at WT probably made this shot good in the game against the Hardin-Simmons fish last Monday night. At least the score would indicate that he did since the Yearlings romped to a 71-44 win over the Junior Cowboys. No. 20 with his back to the back is Tom Airhart and No. 29 is Nolan Poteet. Barely visible in the background is Athletic Director and Head Basketball Coach, W. A. Miller, with a very pleased expression on his face.

Braden & Mates Rank in Scoring

Glynn Braden is making quite an impression on the sports world as an accurate center, as noted this week in the statistics of the National Intercollegiate Athletic Bureau. The center and captain of West Texas State's surging Buffaloes has thus far this season shot an average of 500 in field goals.

This will be the last year for Braden to play with the Buffs, and his present average places him second in the nation, among the smaller colleges.

Pete Bromley Has Knee Operation

It could be that a great deal of West Texas State College's football prospects for next fall depend on a surgeon's knife.

Big Pete Bromley, 200-pound guard from Clarendon, recently underwent a knee operation. If the operation cures an ailment which kept Bromley out of play for the most part last year, the Buffaloes' football chances will be greatly enhanced.

Sometimes a knee operation is successful and sometimes it isn't. Time alone will tell in Bromley's case. Year before last he was rated as one of the best guards in the Border Conference. During the summer vacation he hurt a knee when a team of mules ran away with him. He tried to play, but it was no go, the knee being re-hurt each time until toward the end of the season he did not even suit out.

and have rated 29th up to date in team defense, limiting their opponents to an average of 47.5 points per game thus far.

These records only include games played before January 29.

AN HISTORICAL EPISODE OF LIFE IN THE GREAT SOUTHWEST

INDIAN WAYS AND TIMES

BY EVETTS HALEY
ILLUSTRATED BY H. D. BUGBEE

As A PROUD REGION reaches a measure of maturity it is inclined to hark back to the lessons of its beginning, much as reflection and reminiscence follow action with a man of age. It is easy now to recall that white settlers once rushed to cross over and forget these southwestern plains, mesas and breaks—this section that even those tough travelers found so austere, so severe, so unforgiving.

But as the trails of these first white men—Santa Fe traders, gold seekers, army explorers and others—cut their significant ruts through the clean sod, a race of rugged red men went their free and independent ways along dim trails, the beginnings of which were even then lost with age.

Scientists still potter around in ancient ruins and ponder the origins of the Indians, artists continue to portray their life and customs in lasting oils, and historians dig into the written records to depict in print their durable nature. In the light of all the records, those of the Great Plains and the bordering mountain ranges were a notable breed.

There were the wily Apaches and the more stable Utes on the western fringes, the mighty Comanches and the Kiowas on and around the Staked Plains, and the fighting Cheyennes and a host of others farther north. In a way, and by modern standards, they lived upon a squalid level of subsistence. Fortunately for those who cherish the heroic qualities of the human race, however, their glory was not dependent on their plumbing, but on their rugged character and their dauntless courage.

Still this is not to gloss over the violence of their period or the savagery of their deeds. For nearly a hundred years on the Southwestern frontiers, it was never gentle but it was war to the knife. For those wars then, as are wars now, were for survival. The pattern of the story in this section is generally known. Marble shafts mark the spots where bitter memories record the deeds: Carson's fight on the Canadian; Mackenzie's battle in the Palo Duro; Chivington's massacre on the Big Sandy; Custer's on the Washita; embattled buffalo hunters fighting for their lives at Adobe Walls; and many others just as important and sometimes more commendable.

Yet on through the sixties and seventies these mighty warriors held the southwestern peaks and plains to within the memory of our oldest men—until the regions round about were fairly civilized and settled. Only when the combined forces of the Texas Rangers and the regular army from outposts in Kansas, present Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico—with a riotous sprinkling of outraged settlers—moved against them, was their resistance definitely broken. And then their tactics and their strategy—models of mobility and movement—were apparently forgotten until the late world war.

And while a mechanical age makes a mockery of distance, there is still something wildly challenging to the imagination in the magnificent sweep of the Comanches, from their buffalo ranges on the upper reaches of the Arkansas across half a continent, to depredate upon the cattle ranches of central Mexico. There was the stubborn mettle of determined men in the long resistance of the bloody Apaches in their mountain strongholds. There was pathos and tragedy, as well as bold maneuver and military genius, in the last flight of the Cheyennes from the hated reservations in Indian Territory, back to their ancestral home on the northern ranges. And finally, when all were subdued and beaten, if never conquered, they simply submitted with the grave stoicism and the high and haughty dignity of worthy warriors and real men.

In retrospect, it should be conducive to civilized tolerance to realize that there is no monopoly upon virtue in the rugged realms of the human heart.

Too Many Dogs Are Running at Large in Canyon

TO THE NEWS:

I want to join in on the subject of DOGS, big dogs, little dogs, mangy dogs and a hundred other kinds of dogs in between.

I would guess there are at least 1300 loose dogs in Canyon, and 750 of them stay on my lawn.

I am trying to put out blue grass again. Had a very good stand once, and if this sowing of seed survives I will have to hire a man to clean off the manure, bones, etc., before the children can play on the grass when warm weather comes.

If dog owners were forced to pay a fine when their dogs were caught on other people's property that would help. People who keep dogs in town don't usually have much pride in their own yards, houses, or in the city. If you want to keep a house dog, or keep your dog in a pen, that is different, but there is a law against stray dogs and if there was open season on stray dogs it would help too.

I know people who have to be at home and get their paper as soon as the paper boy comes, or the dogs get it and tear it up.

I have lived in Canyon for a long time and there are more loose dogs now than I have ever seen before.

Heaven help us when spring comes and the crop of puppies are born!

March of Dimes Will Close Drive End of the Week

Elkins, chairman of the March of Dimes campaign, announced this week that the campaign will be closed at the end of the week, and asked that all clubs and organizations which have contributions to the March of Dimes, turn them in to her as soon as possible. Local Dodge Dealer Sees New Models

Otto Samuelson, owner of the Samuelson Motor Co., has returned from Oklahoma City where he attended a dealer preview of the completely new-styled Dodge cars, the first models of which will be publicly displayed in his dealership on Friday, February 25.

Mr. Samuelson said that although detailed information of the appearance and many engineering and mechanical improvements introduced in the new Dodge could not be revealed prior to the public showing, there are certain general facts concerning the comfort-engineering story behind the new Dodge styling that can be disclosed at this time. "The primary considerations that influenced the design of the new Dodge were Army statistics which showed that G. I.'s of World War II were taller, bigger, and more active than their predecessors of World War I," Mr. Samuelson said. "As a result it was more apparent that more passenger room, not less, was required in the modern automobile to comfortably accommodate our physically larger generation."

Mr. Samuelson pointed out that the challenge of Dodge engineers was to design a car with more interior space and still reduce exterior dimensions to eliminate difficulties of handling in traffic, parking, and garaging.

To learn how Dodge succeeded in meeting this challenge and at the same time produced a car with an entirely new and distinctive styling, Mr. Samuelson cordially invites everybody to his gala open house on February 25.

Oil Companies Build Tankers to Import More Oil

Several years ago the owners of oil companies numbering tens of thousands of our citizens made preparations for the inevitable, and directed their hirelings, presidents, and executive officers to build oil tankers so that when oil could be imported cheaper than it could be produced in this country they would be in position to do so. In doing this the owners realized that the cost of tankers would be deducted from their own dividends. That time has arrived and there is now millions of barrels of oil being imported by the tankers that forethought built. This is not all the owners have done. They have told their employed officers to cut expenses to the bone and save what could be saved of the owners' investments. The hired officers have laid off thousands of employees and reduced production. After analysis you find letter word starting with L enters largely into the picture.

Citizen Asks That Avenues be Changed Appropriate Names

The News has received the following letter from Mrs. L. L. Gore regarding the renaming of Avenues:

It will be wonderful when you put up street markers, but for mercy sake don't order them until you have named our avenues. I am sending you a little map of suggestions because I am deeply interested in this matter.

Thanks Mrs. Gore for your letter and your suggestions. When Canyon was first incorporated, east and west streets were given names of trees, and persons. Not many people liked the scheme, and demanded that the City Commission change the system, calling streets running east and west avenues; and those running north and south streets. We don't know what the people would think of going back to the old system of naming; probably it would make little difference to most of them. But street markers will be bought soon, and it will be a good thing to take the matter up with the city commission before the markers are erected. Again, thanks.

Oil Wages Are Too High For Reasonable Prices of Products

While having dinner in a cafe at Midland a few months ago with the driver of a large oil company truck the subject of wages was discussed. He told me that his base wage was $96.00 a week for forty hours work. But that he managed to get in an average of two hours a day during the five working days at time and a half and also to get in from eight to twelve hours during Saturdays and Sundays at double time, and that he usually made about $180.00 a week. When the waitress brought the checks, mine was for 65c; his for $2.25. Can you figure out why we are losing our oil business to other countries and are now importing oil ourselves?

"You are misleading the child," said the mother.
"No, I am not," he answered.
"Yes, you are."
"I tell you I am not! It's outrageous—"
"All right, dad," said the boy. "Don't get excited, I think I know how wars begin."

Cotton Mill Worker With Same Firm For 76 Years

GRANITEVILLE, S. C.—James Wesley Reardon is 87, and he's in a rut. He's been working for the same company for 76 years now and he can't shake loose.

"When you have worked for 76 years," he says, "you have sort of gotten the habit."

Most other people switch around a bit in their jobs, or get itchy feet and move someplace else. And then they retire. Not Wes Reardon. The Graniteville cotton mill can't get him to stop, and they've dubbed him the "grand old man of Horse Creek Valley" because they're convinced he's set some kind of record.

Wes doesn't agree with them. It's just that he'd "feel lost without something to do," he says.

He started as a "tack boy" in the mill founded by William Gregg, who is called the father of the textile industry in the south. Since then he's had a variety of responsible jobs, including plant supervisor. For many years he was paymaster of the company and worked in the shipping department at the same time.

"Sure," he says, "I went to school to learn reading, writing and 'rithmetic. A fellow can learn anything after he learns to read and write, but he needs a little help on 'rithmetic."

After he decided his job with the mill looked permanent, Wes Reardon thought he'd better do something about his Sundays. He became a Sunday school teacher at St. John's Methodist church and joined the choir. That was sort of recent—only 70 years ago.

Two Minnesota Families Have Marriage Monopoly

MINNEOTA, MINN.—St. Edward's Catholic parish has set a matrimonial record.

Five children of Mr. and Mrs. Will Gossen have married five children of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Janssen in five years. And there's still time to make the record better.

Mr. and Mrs. Gossen, farmers five miles northeast of here, have 14 children. Mr. and Mrs. Janssen, who retired from their farm here and moved to town, have 12 children.

Father Philip Casey has performed all five marriages and says he'd like to officiate at more.

Russian Prospectors Go Modern in Mineral Hunt

MOSCOW.—The old-time prospector with his pick and shovel is outmoded in Russia, where 800 prospecting expeditions are going out in the biggest-ever drive to tap mineral resources, Moscow reports. The expeditions will spend 24,000 hours in the air, some of them parachuting prospectors into Siberian wilds. Others will use 3,000 motor vehicles and 6,000 draft and pack animals, from camels to reindeer. Air crews will use the magnetometer which registers the presence of any large mineral deposits in the ground beneath.

Less Fatigue with Green Light, Opticians Claim

NEW YORK.—For doing hard work with the eyes, lights with a slightly greenish color are best, according to the Journal of the Optical Society of America.

The studies were made by Ernest Simonson and Josef Brozek of the University of Minnesota. They used six young men who spent two hour periods writing very small letters of the alphabet.

The greenish colored lamps were compared with white light and a slightly blue color. The report said that at present there is no definite explanation of the results, but with the greenish light there was less fatigue.

Tube Makes Magnetism Visible as Light Rays

NEW YORK.—Magnetism can now be made visible for the first time by a new light, New York university officials announced. Instead of the iron filings that every high school student uses to show the curved lines of magnetism, the new way shows them as blue rays of light.

The light is made by a tube that shoots out a lot of electrons. These are particles too small to be seen even with the greatest microscopes.

The electrons line up just like the iron filings. They also emit the blue glow which traces the mysterious "lines of force." The new tube was invented by S. J. Tetenbaum.

World's Largest Telescope Floats on Lubricating Oil

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—The million pounds of moving parts of the famous 200-inch Mount Palomar telescope are kept floating on lubricating oil to prevent friction.

Steady streams of oil are pumped through small holes, keeping the telescope lifted and rolling, like a ball in a vertical jet of water, said A. G. Ingalls, an editor of Scientific American.

"This reduces the friction so much that if you were to lay your hand on the side of the telescope, you could easily turn the whole million pounds, provided it were not locked," Ingalls said.

South is forging to the front in paper and pulp industry.

A-Bomb

Defense Is Time, Space

WASHINGTON.—Military experts here have declared that there are two absolute defenses against the atomic bomb. They are time and space. All of us, these experts said, are absolutely safe from the bomb until an enemy gets it and decides to use it. And it may be a year from now or 10 years before that happens.

And, according to the National Security Resources board, even the latest thing in atomic bombs, the improved weapon tested at Eniwetok last spring, can kill and destroy directly over a distance of no more than three miles. But within that area no living thing would be safe. Many persons might survive without injury, but none could bank on it.

Blonde Competes In Used Car Sales With Her Husband

LOUISVILLE.—A 24-year-old blonde who knows her way around the differentials is the first woman in Louisville to sell used cars. She is Mrs. Jean Fairleigh, Greentree Manor, and her ambition is to "have a little lot all my own some day."

A journalism graduate from the University of Kentucky, Jean says she went into the used car business in competition with her husband who sells cars "up the street a piece."

"I used to hang around his lot waiting for him to wrap up a deal and I picked up a lot of information that way," blue-eyed Jean declared.

Jean said her training as an airplane pilot is a big help in knowing motors and mechanics in general.

"But you don't have to be very technical in this business. I just say to a customer, 'you look like a smart person, one who knows a good car when he sees it. Well, you're looking at one right now,'" she explained.

Claiming she sticks as close to the truth as possible in selling used cars, Mrs. Fairleigh said the days of pawning off wrecks as the "family car" of the two old maids who only drove it to church on Sundays is over.

"The public knows there couldn't possibly be as many old maids as there are used cars," she said. "That chestnut's out of date."

Driver Tells of Bringing Dead Animals for Meat Use

PHILADELPHIA.—The son of a Lancaster county corporation lawyer and the operators of a Fort Washington kennel supply firm have been fined a total of $1550 at hearings in Norristown courthouse on charges of selling meat processed from dead animals for use by pets and other domestic animals.

The prosecutions, made by the Pennsylvania department of agriculture, were the first resulting from a statewide investigation into violation of pure food laws.

At the same time, it was reiterated by a spokesman of the department of agriculture that prosecutions are being prepared against a number of persons on charges of selling horse meat and meat from dead animals for human consumption.

Those fined, but who were not charged with selling the illegal dog food for human consumption, were B. Frank Keady, Jr., operator of a kennel supply house on the Lincoln highway near Lancaster, and M. N. Rittenhouse and his wife, Ethel L. Rittenhouse, operators of the Fortside kennel supply company of Fort Washington.

The trio were charged jointly and separately with non-branding of horse meat, non-registration of beef, using foreign minerals or substances injurious to the health of domestic animals, and using the meat of dead animals.

Testimony was given by J. R. Heilman, chief investigator of the food and chemistry bureau of the department of agriculture, before Charles J. Gorman, Montgomery county justice of the peace.

Heilman testified Keady hired a West Chester truck driver to go to Blodgett Mills, N. Y., to pick up 110 packing cans of meat to be delivered to the Rittenhouses.

Thief Underestimates Wily Women and Loses His Loot

LINDEN, N. J.—Police here have on record a case in which the robber was robbed. It involved two fast-thinking women—Mrs. Anna Miller and Mrs. Sonia Lipman and a six-foot bandit.

As the women were sitting in Mrs. Miller's car in front of the Lipman home, the tall stranger pointed a gun in a window and demanded, "Throw your pocket-books out."

"Can't we just take our house keys," Mrs. Miller queried, "so we can get in the house?"

"O. K., but hurry," the bandit relented. A moment later the two handbags went flying out the car window. The man grabbed them, rushed to his parked car and escaped.

Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Lipman turned toward each other. Each opened her fist. There were their keys and there was their money. The robber got empty pocketbooks.

"Gives You Texas"

Before World War II days, in the summer, they served dinner in San Antonio on the roof of the Hotel Gunter porch which extends out over the sidewalk.

The St. Anthony in San Antonio has the quietude of an English club. If anyone coughs, the others sitting around the lobby look toward the offender and frown.

The Gunter is more my kind of hotel. Its lobby is the meeting place of ranchmen, of convention delegates who are whooping it up, and of the general public. Somewhat like the Texas Hotel in Fort Worth, the Windsor in Abilene and the Paso del Norte in El Paso.

Sophisticated Dallas of course has no equivalent.

Visiting my old high school a few years ago, I was told by my former English teacher, "I still point out the desks where Clifford Davis, Sterling Track and you sat." (Clifford is in Congress; Sterling is a distinguished college professor). I could not for the life of me remember which desk I had occupied.

Several of my old schoolmates left their stores and offices and came out to Central High to hear me make a talk. I was telling a friend about it, "Looking out over the audience, I saw several who were in school with me 30 years ago." He asked, "Good gracious! Haven't they graduated yet?"

It could only have been written by a woman, so she did it. Ruth Millet, in a NEA feature, admits it's a man's world, and proceeds to show why. If a man doesn't marry, he's a bachelor—a glamorous word. If a woman doesn't marry, she's an old maid. When it's his night out, he's "out with the boys." When it's her night out, she's at a "hen party." What he hears at the office is "news." What she hears at a bridge party is "gossip." If he runs the family, he's the "head of the house." If she runs it she "wears the pants in that family." If she is overly solicitous of him, he is "henpecked." If she sticks close to him she is a "possessive wife." In middle age he is "in the prime of life." At the same age, she's "no spring chicken." If he is an easy spender he "does not deny his family anything." If she doesn't count the pennies, she's "extravagant" or a poor manager. Gray hair gives him a distinguished look. If she has it, she's an old hag. If he hasn't any small talk, he's the "quiet type." If she hasn't any, she is "mousy."

way or another, they got to where they were needed, and they got the job done.

Reason No. 2—the teamwork that characterizes Bell System service.

Western Electric Company, supply unit of the Bell System, marshaled its nation-wide resources. From Western's warehouses or outside suppliers in 45 communities scattered through 21 states, the materials moved, at once.

A steady stream of poles, crossarms, drop wire, cable, insulators, steel strand, tie wire—all the things the storms had smashed—flowed into the iced area. At no time was work held up by lack of supplies.

Wire shipments during the month were more than was required by Southwestern Bell in all of the fourth quarter of 1948 for normal purposes. In addition to wire, thousands of poles, crossarms, and tons of pole-line hardware were moved by truck, by express, and by air into the storm areas.

Equipment is standardized

In the Bell System telephone equipment is standardized. The parts that fit in Texas work equally well in Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas, or anywhere else. Thus, even the construction gangs from the other companies found no equipment puzzles—and their own tools worked perfectly.

Bell System teamwork met the challenge of these storms. Most of the service has been restored. But permanent repairs, especially on toll lines, will take months to complete. For every wire damaged by the storm must be retied and "resagged" to meet Bell System standards before the job will be finished.

Bufs Top Arizona University Here In Thrilling Game Thursday Night

Arizona University's mighty Wildcats ate humble pie Thursday night in Burton Gym as Coach W. A. "Gus" Miller's Buffaloes toppled the hitherto undefeated Border Conference leaders 52-46 before another sellout crowd.

With eight minutes remaining in the last half the Buffs managed to eke out a three point lead, 45-42, then went into their famous ball-control freeze play.

Much to the delight of the fans it worked, too. The Miller men mounted their own score seven points while allowing their opponents only four in the final eight minutes. Only when they had a sure-fire opening would the Maroon and White shoot and risk losing the ball. And each of the three times they tried it, they made the goal.

WT's hot-shot ball handler, J. W. Malone, teamed with Hubert Kitchens to put on the show, driving in toward the bucket and then passing back out to the mid court section.

Until the stall started the Buffs had to work all the way to stay in the game. Arizona showed plenty of the stuff that made them Border Conference titlists last year and has them well on the road again this season.

But they were obviously road weary and lacked the energy to keep up with Gus Miller's "short" team, the fast, shifty five he uses to spell his taller, set offensive crew.

The score was tied six times before the rest period with the lead changing hands an equal number of times. Both teams were having good luck at the basket and the Wildcats especially enjoyed a hot streak at the foul line.

Leon Blevins, ace Wildcat forward, paced the visitors' first half attack. The former Phoenix Junior College star rimmed five field goals in the opening period, using a deceptive and quite graceful flick of his talented wrists to do it.

He cooled in the second frame, however, due to a slightly injured knee and added only a free pitch to his record. But it was enough to give him high point honors for his team, and a tie with Charles Barnard, six-eight Buff guard for game laurels.

Barnard banked three field tries and five gratis flips for his eleven points. Actually, the Buffs won the game at the free throw line. They hit only one more field basket than Arizona, 18 to 17, but marked 16 free shots to the Wildcats' 12.

After the hair raising first half ended and the teams had rested sufficiently, Buff mentor Miller sent his tall boys in again. And it was the same story again with the exception that WT stayed ahead from one to three points.

But the eight minute stall did the trick. It so rattled the Wildcats that when they did get the ball, they either passed it away or allowed some Hustlin' Buff to intercept or take it away from them.

Next Wednesday night the Buffs meet another Border Conference foe, the New Mexico Aggies, in Canyon. And Saturday they play their last home conference contest with New Mexico University.

David M. Warren Gives High Praise To Canyon News

David M. Warren, publisher of the Panhandle Herald, expressed high praise to the Canyon News in his newspaper last week as follows:

The Panhandle of Texas has many good weekly newspapers. Many are excellent in handling the news of the community, but in the opinion of The Herald editor, Clyde W. Warwick of the Canyon News is the only one publishing an all round weekly newspaper. In addition to publishing the news and advertising, Warwick is writing editorials that give local color and strength. Others may be as capable in discussing a large number of editorial subjects every week, but Clyde Warwick is the only publisher that shows this ability after issue. Publishers know that editorials are closely read but do not take the time necessary to write them and thus present the complete newspaper such as Clyde Warwick is doing so ably at Canyon. His enthusiasm week after week after more than 30 years at Canyon should be an inspiration to more publishers.

Mr. Warren is vice president of the Board of Regents of the University of Texas, and president of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society. His opinions are greatly appreciated, and The News hopes that it will warrant this high praise. Thanks, Dave, for those kind words!

Safeguard Against Undulant Fever by Guarding Milk

As a safeguard against the serious and disabling disease known as undulant fever or Malta Fever, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, advises Texans to drink milk only from approved sources. Undulant fever is usually acquired by human beings as a result of consuming raw milk or raw milk products from cows infected with Bang's disease.

Raw milk or milk products can be consumed with safety only when they are known to be produced by cows tested and found to be free of Bang's disease. Pasteurization, of course, will kill the germs if present.

To assist in lowering the incidence of undulant fever all dairymen should remove cattle infected with Bang's disease from their herds as soon as the disease is discovered. Even if the milk is made safe for human consumption by pasteurization, infected cows are still a menace to health since they can transmit the disease to healthy animals and to their owner and other persons who handle them.

"Undulant fever from cattle," Dr. Cox said, "is one health hazard we can eradicate in our State through absolutely safe milk supplies from dairy herds free from Bang's disease."

"Unless a herd is known to be free from this infection, only pasteurized milk should be used so that the disease cannot be passed on to the consumer of milk and dairy products."

Robert R. McCormick, publisher, Chicago Tribune: "Four million Republicans stayed away from the polls last fall."
